Mergers and Acquisitions Firm, Stonemill Partners Opens Western Region Office

-Mergers and Acquisitions Activity on the Increase-

Atlanta, GA: The Atlanta-based mergers and acquisitions firm, Stonemill Partners has opened an office in Phoenix, AZ.

The new location enables Stonemill Partners to better serve the southwest and western states markets — areas where the firm says it's seeing growth. These markets also appear to be underserved, said Co-Managing Partner, Al Lautenslager, who will be based at the Phoenix location.

The firm opens the office as forecasts for increased merger and acquisition activity continues.

“We are seeing a steady increase in business transaction activity, mostly in acquisitions. Locating an office in Phoenix will help us focus on serving the architectural and engineering firms in the western and southwestern areas, while continuing our nationwide representation” stated Patrick Neal, Co-Managing Partner.

Neal went on to say that, “All indications are that there is a rise in the number of architecture and planning firms considering a merger or acquisition (M&A) in the coming years. Opening a Western States office will help us provide benefits to those considering acquisitions in a more efficient and effective way.”
